Not Just, Another War.

Our government is now considering a major military action to overthrow the Iraqi government.

All of us long for a secure future. But war is not the way. War will:

cause suffering and death for ordinary Iraqis (mothers, fathers, and children);

mean numerous U.S. soldiers returning home in body bags;

further ruin an already collapsing Iraqi civilian infrastructure;

spread violence and further destabilize the Middle East;

aggravate anti-American sentiment.

A more hopeful path toward a secure future includes commitments to:

thoroughly explore peaceful solutions;

cease making threats and begin building trust;

acknowledge positive and address negative behaviors, rather than labeling a whole nation as evil;

work cooperatively with other nations rather than acting alone;

value the well-being and safety of Iraqi citizens as highly as our own security.

Every man, woman, and child deserves peace.
